

Spring 2014

Dear

Saint Joseph's University Collegiate Challenge is a student coordinated, student led service organization that works with Habitat for Humanity to promote awareness of the need of substandard housing in the United States. Every year, students in the organization dedicate a week of their summer break to volunteer with a Habitat affiliate. The organization began in 2004 with a trip to Taos, New Mexico, and it has continued to grow each year. This year, celebrating its 10-year anniversary, SJU Collegiate Challenge is sending student teams to Virginia, California, South Carolina, New Mexico, Mississippi, and New York.

My team is traveling to Georgetown, South Carolina from May 24th-May 31st 2014 to work with the local Habitat affiliate. Georgetown is a small historic city founded in 1769, and it is famous for its fishing and shrimping boats. It also features the new Waccamaw Wildlife Refuge, home to great blue herons, alligators, and even bald eagles. While in Georgetown County, we will work with Georgetown Habitat, which was named one of the top five Collegiate Challenge sites by Habitat International. Habitat of Georgetown County is currently working to complete its 90th home with a goal of building 4-5 homes per year. As we prepare to travel to Georgetown, we are excited to immerse ourselves into the local culture, and we are ready to assist the community while working with Habitat.

It is important to note that Saint Joseph's University Habitat for Humanity's Collegiate Challenge goes beyond the physical labor of the service project. It offers me the opportunity to develop a greater understanding of another culture within the United States, as well as to grow both intellectually and spiritually. It will challenge me to fulfill the Jesuit ideal of serving with and for others in my day-to-day life.

In order to participate in Collegiate Challenge, I need your support. Collegiate Challenge is entirely funded through the generosity of donors. The cost of my service trip averages approximately $100 a day per person. Your donation will support my travel expenses, food costs, and a contribution to the Georgetown Habitat affiliate for building materials and supplies. Please note that all donations are also tax deductible. You can make a donation either online or by sending a check by mail. Please see the attached donation form for directions.

Thank you in advance for your effort and consideration. I look forward to sharing my experience with you upon my return!

Sincerely,

"The future of this movement lies with the young people."

-Millard Fuller, founder Habitat for Humanity International